

Foreign Trade Minister Quits Job In Russia

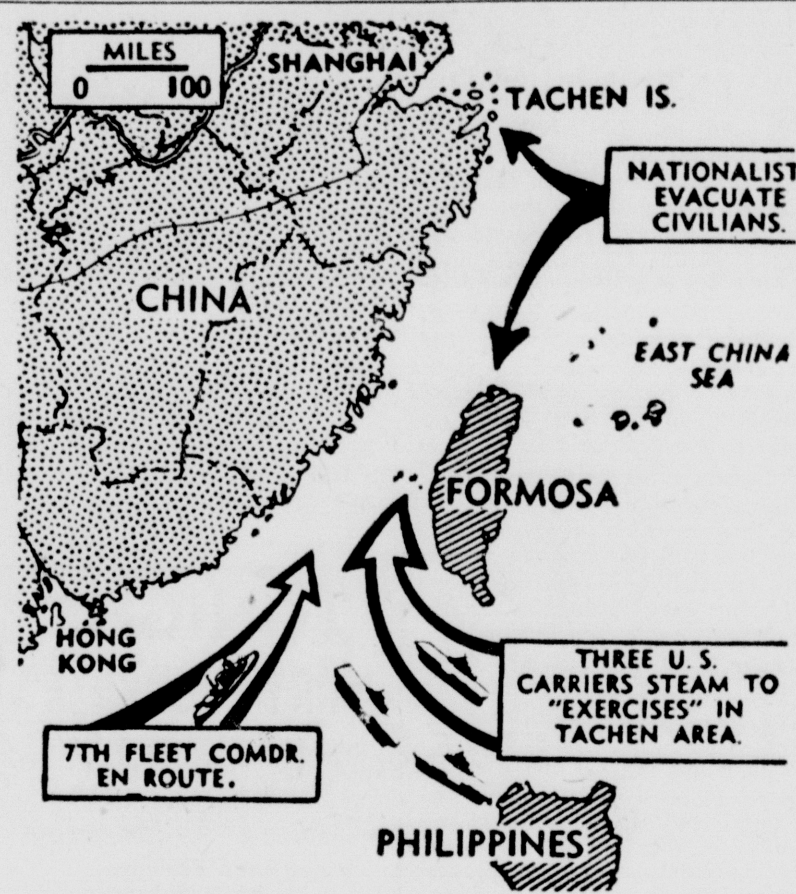

MOSCOW (AP) — Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan, high priest of the Soviet Union's drive for more consumer goods, gave up his job as trade minister Monday night. Foreign observers viewed the shift as new evidence of a Soviet trend back to prime emphasis on heavy industry.

Mikoyan, 60-year-old ace negotiator of foreign trade agreements, held on to his other top posts, including one of the Soviet Union's nine deputy premierships and membership on the policy-making Central Committee on the Soviet Communist party.

An announcement by the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet said the deputy premier had been relieved of the trade ministry at his own request and that Dmitri Pavlov, food minister in 1951 and later first deputy minister of light and food industries, would replace him.

Postmaster General Asks For 4-Cent Letter Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Summerfield has asked Congress to raise the price of mailing a letter from 3 to 4 cents "to meet increased costs; to provide facilities for growing mail volume; to improve service."

For the same reason, Summerfield Monday called for a boost in domestic air mail from 6 to 7 cents and second and third-class mail rates.

Up 332 Million
In all, the rate increases would yield more than 332 million dollars a year. Of this, the 1-cent increase in the cost of a letter stamp would account for 237 millions. The letter rate would be raised only on the first ounce, remaining at 3 cents for each additional ounce.

Summerfield coupled his bid for higher rates with a proposal to raise the pay of about 500,000 letter carriers, clerks and other postal workers by 5 per cent. At the same time, he suggested a revision of salary schedules which he said now result in "injustices" and prevent the Post Office Department "from paying employees what they are worth."

He estimated these increases and adjustments would cost 129 million dollars a year. Counting certain fringe benefits, this would amount to at least 170 millions a year, the Post Office Department said.

Voted Last Year
Last year Congress went along with President Eisenhower on a postal pay raise but ignored his companion proposal for higher mail charges designed to bring in compensating revenue. Eisenhower then vetoed the pay raise bill.

Earlier this month, Eisenhower renewed his bid for higher postal salaries and rates. Summerfield's bills spell out the administration's general proposals in detail.

The Post Office Department said in a statement that "despite recent economies and greater efficiency," it now operates at a loss of between 300 million and 400 million dollars a year.

Summerfield estimated an increase from 6 to 7 cents for the first ounce on air mail letters would bring in an additional 14 million dollars a year.

He also asked an increase of 15 per cent on second-class mail (mostly newspapers and magazines) for two successive years, adding 84 million annually, and 28 per cent on third-class mail (advertising matter and small merchandise packages), adding 73 million.

'Russian Colonel' Unmolested Behind U. S. A. Iron Curtain

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A newspaper reporter posing as a Russian colonel had no trouble penetrating America's answer to the Iron Curtain Monday.

All day long, newsman Norman Poirier of the Pottstown Mercury roamed this city in a genuine Russian officer's uniform to find out what would happen.

Pottstown is one of the areas declared off limits to Russian nationals in a recent State Department directive as a rejoinder to restrictions placed on Americans behind the Iron Curtain.

Poirier rode on a train, snapped pictures of forbidden factories, dropped "poison" pills into the water supply, "blew up" a bridge, mingled with citizens, shopped in markets, ordered vodka in bars, played juke boxes and rubbed elbows with anybody he could find.

"He must be a high ranking Salvation Army officer," remarked a passerby.

One woman was more discerning. "I don't know what he is," she said, "but I don't like his looks." Another citizen thought he was a Chinese general dressed up to celebrate the Chinese New Year.

In a bar one man nearly started a fight with Poirier when the reporter pretended to have no knowledge of English.

Only one person was heard to say he thought the uniformed stranger was a Russian officer who had no business in the area.

A fellow reporter followed Poirier all over town, taking down people's spontaneous comments.

Poirier, carrying a camera, made his appearance by riding into this eastern Pennsylvania city on a train from Royersford, eight miles away.

His uniform was acquired from a New York outfitter.

Chicago Cab Driver In Coma For Year

CHICAGO (AP) — John Brookhouse, a cab driver who has been unconscious for almost a year, is 36 today.

His wife Anne, 35, who visits him almost every day, said she will try to bring their three children to the Cook County Hospital, for the occasion.

Brookhouse has been unconscious since robbers slugged him Feb. 13, 1954, while on duty.

Atomic Submarine Goes Into Drydock After Passing Tests

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The atomic submarine Nautilus goes into a floating drydock at high tide today for a routine hull inspection, painting and rebalancing.

The Nautilus has been in the water since the launching Jan. 21, 1954.

A Navy announcement said the 300-foot giant, which steamed 148 hours under nuclear propulsion in two cruises since her builder's sea trials began Jan. 17 this year, would remain in drydock at the submarine base here for about two weeks.

The Navy said all her tests to date, including over 50 dives, have been "satisfactory."

Berserk Worker Kills His Wife

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Peter Verselder, 46, killed his 40-year-old wife with a revolver slug in the eye last night and then wounded his 19-year-old daughter five times in an argument over his driving his wife's car, police said.

Today, while being questioned, Verselder began breathing heavily and died in a few minutes. Police said they believed he took an overdose of sleeping tablets before being captured.

After the shooting, Verselder held police outside his home until he was forced from the place gasping from fear gas fumes.

The daughter was in Memorial Hospital in good condition although she was wounded in the right cheek, breast, abdomen, a hand and an arm. She ran from the house after being shot and asked neighbors to call the police. Two other daughters, Nancy, 13, and Kathleen, 6, ran from the place unharmed.

With his wife, Ann, dead in the kitchen with a revolver bullet wound through the right eye, Lt. Richard Stickley said Verselder threatened police as they arrived.

Congress Set To Endorse U. S. Defense Of Formosa

First Refugees From Tachens Reach Formosa

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — An old grey landing ship slid into the small, hill-girt harbor of Keelung in northern Formosa today with the first 193 refugees—many of them children—from the Communist-menaced Tachen Islands 200 miles to the north.

The dingy LSM carried widows and orphans of Nationalist guerrillas who died last week in the defense of Yikiangshan island. One woman, the widow of a guerrilla chieftain, carried a 12-day-old baby.

On board also were 18 sick and wounded Nationalist soldiers and 83 children under 14 years of age from a Tachen orphanage, and 15 women of the orphanage staff.

The grieving women and solemn children walked down a gangway past Chinese sailors on the Han-yang and Loyang, formerly the U.S. destroyers Hilary F. Jones and Henson.

The evacuation was a Nationalist operation, possibly the forerunner of a complete withdrawal from the two small Tachen Islands.

The evacuation ship on the final stage of its trip passed through waters protected by the U.S. 7th Fleet built around four fast carriers of the Essex class.

The fleet is in position to assist in the complete withdrawal of 20,000 Nationalist troops from the Tachens if it gets orders to do the job.

Unofficial Nationalist quarters made it plain they thought the Tachens would be abandoned to the Reds.

Nation Faces Gravest War Risk Since Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States faces today greater risk of war with Red China than at any time since the Korean War ended 18 months ago.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles are convinced that taking this risk, however, affords the best long-range hope for peace in the Far East.

In his message to Congress Monday, Eisenhower put the issue squarely up to Red China: If the Reds start an attack aimed at conquering Formosa, the United States is prepared to fight; if and when the Reds are ready for peace, the United States is prepared to make peace.

Peiping Builds Up

Several events this month focused the problem of Formosa, the Chinese Nationalist seat of government, so sharply that administration leaders decided a more clearly defined policy was needed. Among them:

1. Leaders in the new Democratic-controlled Congress wanted to know the full extent of firm and potential American commitments in the area.

2. The Communists engaged in a steady buildup of forces opposite Formosa and Peiping kept repeating her intent to conquer the island.

3. The Reds displayed effective striking power in capturing last week the small Nationalist-held island of Yikiangshan.

4. Chiang Kai-shek appealed for U.S. help when the Reds stepped up attacks on the Tachen Islands, near Yikiangshan but more important than it. The Tachens, 200 miles north of Formosa, are close to the Communist mainland.

No More Yalu

The expression of support which the President requested from Congress Monday would permit the close-in use of American ships and planes to remove troops from the Tachens and other islands so that they could be regrouped to bolster Formosa's defenses. Such operations carry a grave risk of involvement with Communist fighters and shore-based artillery fire.

What Eisenhower asked would go beyond mere redeployment, however, in cases where he President decided it was necessary to hold some of the offshore islands to defend Formosa properly. The President did not draw a precise line.

Furthermore, the President would have Congress' advance approval to order strikes directly at Communist concentrations on the Red China mainland. In the authorization, at least, there would be no privileged sanctuary for the Reds such as existed throughout the Korean War north of the Yalu River.

Highway Bond Issue Of 500 Million Pushed For Ballot In April

LANSING (AP) — Sen. Haskell L. Nichols (R-Jackson) today called for speed in placing a 500 million dollar highway construction bond issue on the April ballot.

Nichols, sponsor of one such proposal and chairman of the Senate Highways Committee considering the plan, said he hoped to obtain Senate action this week.

Nichols said his committee had given priority to legislation to permit the Michigan Turnpike Authority to borrow on promissory notes pending the issue of its toll road bonds, but that he was trying to get the half-billion dollar proposal under way promptly.

Priorities Worked Out

Gov. William planned to confer this afternoon with Nichols, State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler and William Palmer, secretary of the Petroleum Industries Committee — a group he asked to work out a system of priorities for spending bond issue money.

Election officials have advised the Legislature that if the issue is to go on the April 4 election ballot, it should clear the House and Senate by mid-February to leave time for printing and distributing ballots.

A new version of the state school code, more than 300 pages long, was filed in the Senate in an attempt to overcome the defeat which a similar measure met last year. This one appeared to face better success.

Sen. Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield), one of the authors, said it would reduce the number of school districts from seven to five, making rural school districts and graded districts the same as fourth class districts.

Porter said the bill will simplify the reorganization, annexation and merger of school districts and attempt to solve the bonded debt problem which has conflicted with those moves in the past.

Other bills proposed would:

Allow the governor to declare Monday a legal holiday when a legal holiday falls on a Saturday.

Require compulsory safety inspection of motor vehicles more than two years old, except for farm and road equipment.

Set a maximum height of 13 feet, six inches for vehicles with loads. Under present law, only loaded auto carriers can be over 12 feet in height.

Make it a misdemeanor to put any object on a railroad track that might threaten derailment.

Tito Critics Get Freedom In Trial

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Communist Yugoslavia freed former Vice President Milovan Djilas and Vladimir Dedjier early today but clamped a judicial gag on the two critics of President Tito's regime.

In a 15-hour secret trial ending shortly after midnight, a five-judge court convicted the two former Red bigwigs of conspiring against Tito's government by planting hostile propaganda in the foreign press. They were given suspended sentences, then released on probation.

If they repeat during their probationary period the offenses for which they were imprisoned, they automatically will be imprisoned. In effect, they must refrain from criticizing Tito's government or lose their conditional freedom.

Djilas, 43 and one of the government's top four men until his ouster a year ago, was put on probation for three years in lieu of an 18-month prison period.

Dedjier, Tito's 41-year-old official biographer and a former member of Parliament, drew a two-year probationary term instead of six months in prison.

They could have been jailed for up to 20 years at hard labor. Instead they left the little courtroom and returned to their homes.

Their troubles began with articles Djilas wrote for Borba, the Yugoslav Communist party organ, in which he criticized government policies, called for wider freedom of political expression and assailed wives of leading government officials for snubbing the actress bride of Chief of Staff Peko Dapcevic.

Dedjier, like Tito a close comrade in arms of Djilas in the wartime partisan fighting, sided with the vice president when the Communist party Central Committee called him on the carpet. Subsequently both men defended their position in interviews with foreign correspondents.

Sen. Bricker Of Ohio Backs Joint Treaty For Lamprey Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) says he will support a joint U. S.-Canadian treaty to rid the Great Lakes of sea lampreys providing the agreement doesn't give Canada control over U. S. fisheries.

Bricker disclosed his stand Monday after a conference with William C. Herrington, special assistant to the undersecretary of state for fisheries and wildlife.

The administration is expected to ask the Senate in late February to approve the joint pact against the fish-killing lamprey.

Lake Erie, bordering Ohio, is not troubled by the eel-like creatures. The lampreys, however, have destroyed thousands of fish in the upper Great Lakes.

President Hopes To Prevent War On Chinese Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders today predicted speedy and overwhelming approval of President Eisenhower's program for defense of Formosa.

They said, after a White House session, that the Chinese Communists might interpret as a "show of weakness" any delay on a resolution giving the President advance approval to make war if he regards that step as necessary to keep the Chinese Nationalist stronghold free.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California and House GOP chief Martin of Massachusetts talked with newsmen about the situation after their regular weekly meeting with the President.

Senate Vote Thursday

Martin predicted that the House later in the day would vote "very, very overwhelming" approval of Eisenhower's request that Congress declare "our readiness to fight" to keep Formosa and the adjacent Pescadores islands from falling to the Reds.

Knowland said he looks for the Senate to vote overwhelming approval of the administration resolution by Thursday at the latest.

Knowland added that "any show of weakness or division might encourage the Chinese Communists to take steps detrimental to peace in the world."

Almost simultaneously with the Republican leaders' White House comments, the House Foreign Affairs Committee reported that the Joint Chiefs of Staff unanimously approved the resolution.

The committee, which voted 28-0 for the measure Monday, disclosed the joint chiefs' stand in its report formally urging the House to adopt it.

Quick Action Essential
The report said favorable action by the Congress would enable the President "to act calmly, clearly and resolutely to stem the erosion of the free world."

A move developed among some influential senators, meanwhile, to delay a vote in the Senate for at least a couple of days.

Several senators who declined to be quoted by name said they want what they call the full import of the proposed resolution to "sink in" to the American people before final action.

The Foreign Affairs Committee said it "recognizes the serious nature and the full implications of the course of action which it (the resolution) authorizes."

In Monday's closed door meeting, the report said, the committee rejected the idea of drawing a specific line around Formosa after considering the idea at length.

"The committee concluded that precise definition tends to tie the hands of the United States to an undesirable extent."

Much At Stake

The group said it also considered possible United Nations action and concluded that "the urgency of the danger and the need for immediate measures, however, make it essential to grant this authority without awaiting assumption of jurisdiction by the United Nations."

The present Chinese Communist thrusts toward Formosa, the report added, are "part of the progressive chipping away of the free world. The fate of Formosa, of the non-communist peoples of Asia, and of our own defensive line is at stake."

Widespread backing, coupled with a few reservations, was voiced immediately after the President, in a special message Monday, asked Congress to pass a resolution expressing a "readiness to fight" in defense of Formosa, seat of the Chinese Nationalist government, and the approaches to it.

Briefed In Secret

The President said his aim was to assure peace by seeking to dissuade the Chinese Reds from attacking.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee swiftly endorsed the resolution Monday night 28-0 after a secret briefing by Secretary of State Dulles and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Dulles and Radford also appeared at a briefing for senators, and Sen. Morse (Ind-Rep.) commented afterward that the authority the President sought "could very well mean war." Sen. George

Industrial Future:

Escanaba Needs Adequate Electric Power To Share In Growth, Says Warden

Escanaba and the Delta County area can be assured of an adequate supply of electric power and favorable place in the "new look" industrial picture of the Upper Peninsula if the people of Escanaba accept the power supply proposition of the Upper Peninsula Power Company.

This in brief was the assurance given by John H. Warden, Houghton, president of the Upper Peninsula Power Company, in a talk Monday noon to the Escanaba Rotary Club at the Delta Hotel. The speaker was introduced by Bruce Brackett, Rotary Club program chairman.

Warden reviewed the development of the Upper Peninsula from the first boom days in the utilization of natural resources to the present-day explorations and industrial research for new processes that promise an economic rebirth for the region.

"I definitely believe that this area is on the threshold of a commercial and industrial development that will give it a 'new look,'" Warden declared.

Power Backing

The report of Ebasco Services, Inc., on its economic study of the Upper Peninsula, and the report of the Michigan Chapter, Society of Industrial Realtors of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, were cited by Warden to support his belief that the people of the Upper Peninsula can face the future with optimism. The national rise in population, higher industrial production goals, construction of the Straits Bridge and St. Lawrence Seaway will all have a favorable effect upon the region, Warden said.

The Upper Peninsula offers many advantages to industries, but it also has one major disadvantage cited by Ebasco Services, Warden noted. "Lack of surplus firm electric power in many districts of the Upper Peninsula has been a major deterrent to the greater industrial growth of the districts," according to the Ebasco Report.

"At the present time, the Escanaba area is the only portion of the Upper Peninsula which does not have access to an adequate, dependable supply of electric energy furnished by companies whose primary business is the supplying of such services and who are willing and able to take care of the needs of their respective areas," Warden said.

"If Escanaba expects to take advantage of the new look in the Upper Peninsula or keep pace with the development of the area, a satisfactory solution to this question must be made."

Effect On Area

Warden pointed out that two of the largest local industries have plans and would proceed immediately with "extensive expansion programs if adequate power were available." This would call for an addition of "at least 300 workers."

"I believe that you will agree that making the right decision in connection with its power problem is one of the most important which has faced the people of Escanaba. It is believed that in making this decision, it is most important that Escanaba consider the effect of any decision upon its trade area for, unless a decision is made that will take care of the area adequately, Escanaba is bound to suffer," Warden said.

"The Upper Peninsula Power Company has offered a solution to this problem. The company, which, at the present time, has transmission lines within forty miles of Escanaba, was organized in 1947 by the merger of three companies, the Houghton County Electric Light Company, Copper District Power Company and Iron Range Light and Power Company. Its activities in the territory were further expanded in Dec. 1953, by the acquisition of The Cliffs Power and Light Company and the Upper Peninsula properties of the Michigan Gas and Electric Company. At the present time, we have 26,000 customers in 9 counties and 74 communities in the Upper Peninsula, in a territory extending from Copper Harbor on the northwest to Port Inland near Manistique on the southeast.

Proposal Outlined

"It can readily be seen that the acquisition of the Escanaba territory would be a logical step in the program of expansion of the company," Warden pointed out. "The company is owned by 2,700 stockholders, 49 per cent of them living in the State of Wisconsin and Michigan. It is an independently operated and unaffiliated company, progressively managed and adequately financed to meet the present and future needs of the territory."

"Our proposal includes the purchase of the distribution system of the City of Escanaba for $1,200,000; acquisition of the distribution properties of the Upper Michigan Light and Power Company which will enable us to take care of the electric requirements of the Escanaba trade area; give jobs and seniority rights to the present employees of both the City and the power company; construct at least a 12,500 kilowatt generating station within the city limits which would take care of the area requirements and build an interconnecting transmission line from Gwinn to Escanaba which would enable us to furnish standby capacity for the plant during the periods when it is necessary to have the plant shut down for emergency or regular maintenance and repairs. This tie line would also enable us to furnish surplus power to the rest of our system, thereby increasing our load factor and decreasing overall costs."

"We have agreed to use the rates which are now in effect in the City for all classes of service and will not request an increase for at least three years, and, from the projected load growth and economic studies which have been made, the requirements of the system will be such that at the end of the three year period an increase would not be justified. We would establish a district office in the area with a district manager and operating personnel so that, as far as the people of Escanaba are concerned, it would be operated as a local enterprise."

"Escanaba is ideally situated to become the center of industrial development in the Upper Peninsula and it is located from 100 to 200 miles nearer to the 50,000,000 customers referred to earlier than most parts of the Peninsula. Its transportation facilities are such that there is an advantage in freight rates to the populous centers. It is located on Lake Michigan from which an unlimited amount of industrial water can be obtained for industrial purpose. Being one of the largest cities in the Upper Peninsula, it is in position to furnish high type labor and, unlike most Upper Peninsula communities, it is located in flat country with unlimited space for industrial plant location. "We hope that when the decision on the power question is made it will be a decision which will enable Escanaba to play a most important part in the 'new look' of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan," Warden concluded.

Captains Appointed For Mothers' March

Captains have been appointed for the 1955 Mothers' March on Polio which will be held Thursday evening, Jan. 27, from seven to eight.

General chairman of the Mothers' March is Mrs. V. J. Lang. Captains are Mrs. Verner Johnson, Webster district; Mrs. Arthur Christenson, Washington district; Mrs. George Coan, Franklin district; Mrs. Frank LaGessee, Barr district; Mrs. Edgar Arntzen, Jefferson district.

The Mothers' March is one of the big fund-raising features of the polio campaign. A goal of $2,000 has been set for this event in the county. The Mother's March will also be held in Gladstone Thursday night.

During the hour from 7 to 8, marching mothers will call at every home. Householders are urged to light their porchlight or to light a lamp or candle in the front window.

70 Episcopalians Attend Missionary Meeting, Iron River

Seventy Episcopalians convened at St. John's Church, Iron River, for the first of two meetings of the Missionary clergy and laity of the Diocese of Northern Michigan, last Sunday. The second meeting will be held Sunday, Jan. 30, in St. Ignace.

"Are we doing, as Missions, what we are supposed to do?" asked the Rt. Rev. Herman R. Page, Bishop of the Diocese, in opening the first session. He then emphasized the fact that each Mission is founded to extend the frontier of the Church. The only way the job can be done is by an informed laity, Bishop Page said, and their cooperation with the Missionary clergy. Also, the laity can only be informed by Christian Education on a level from the cradle to the grave.

Following the Bishop's opening remarks, a discussion period was held, during which representatives from the various Missions shared their ideas and their problems. Following the Service of Evening Prayer, conducted by the Rev. Herman Page of Crystal Falls, supper was served. The meeting closed with a second discussion period.

As a result of this meeting, the first of its kind to be sponsored by the Department of Town and Country of the Diocese, the Bishop's Committees of the Mission plan to conduct self-study surveys in order to determine the purpose and scope of each Mission. In May, a second series of meetings will be held at which the Missions will report their findings and again discuss their place in the work of the Diocese.

Attendance at this meeting for the Western section of the Diocese far exceeded expectations of the Department of Town and Country. Representatives attended from the following places: Calumet, Crystal Falls, Ewen, Gladstone, Iron River, Ontonagon, Sidsaw and Wilson. Missionary Clergy in attendance in addition to the Bishop included the Very Rev. William A. Burritt, Calumet; the Rev. W. Leighton Burgess, Ontonagon; the Very Rev. Joseph S. Dickson, Escanaba; the Very Rev. J. William Robertson, Iron Mountain, and Mr. Page, who is also chairman of the Department of Town and Country.

Man from Rochester says, "I'm a lot better off because of Blue Cross-Blue Shield!"

"Blue Cross - Blue Shield saved the day for me," says Mr. Heckman of Rochester. "I was in the hospital for over two months. Really needed the works—oxygen, operating room, anesthesia—and you find that they can really amount up in no time! My hospital bill alone was over $1800. I didn't have to pay a penny of it! My Blue Cross Comprehensive Contract covered it all! And—Blue Shield paid $460 of my doctor bill, too. It would take me years to get rid of that debt if I didn't have Blue Cross-Blue Shield. Like I say, I'm a lot better off because I've got it."

What if your family had an unexpected hospital bill this year? One in every three families will! Wouldn't you be a lot better off with protection like the kind that saved over $2200 for Mr. Heckman?

Find out how you can get low-cost Blue Cross - Blue Shield group coverage for hospital and doctor bills. A company with as few as 5 employees may qualify as a group. Today, call or write: Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Mr. A. R. Pearce, Room 11, Union Nat'l Bank Bldg., Marquette, Mich., Phone 2948

Historians Will Hear Mrs. Paul

Mrs. Carroll Paul, curator for the Marquette County Historical Society, will be the principal speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Delta County Historical Society to be held at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Delta Hotel.

Author of articles appearing in Michigan History Magazine and other publications, and lecturer to schools and club groups, Mrs. Paul is recognized as an authority on aspects of the history and culture of the Upper Peninsula. She is the daughter of the late John M. Longyear, Marquette land agent and mine owner.

A trustee of the Peter White Public Library for many years, Mrs. Paul has since 1945 acted as curator for the Marquette County Historical Society, which maintains both the J. M. Longyear Research Library and a museum, mainly devoted to objects of local interest.

Kenyon Boyer, managing director of the Marquette County Historical Society, will appear with Mrs. Paul on the speaking program of the Delta County Historical Society.

Also to appear on the program will be Mrs. Frank Spear Sr., Marquette, who will talk briefly on historic bells, with a demonstration of bells from her collection.

The material the speakers will present will relate to the early period of exploration and pioneering in the Delta County area.

Charles Folio, Delta County Historical Society president, will introduce the speakers. Officers and committees will make reports and the annual election of officers will be held.

Roy Olson New President Of Sportsmen's Club

Roy G. Olson was elected president of the Delta County Sportsmen's Club at the sportsmen's annual meeting Monday evening in Carpenters' Hall. He succeeds James Rouman, who served as president for the past two years. Rouman becomes a member of the board of directors.

Other officers elected to serve with Olson are: George Snyder, first vice president; Ted Baldwin, second vice president; Victor Powers, secretary and M. W. Ettenhofer, treasurer.

Clayton Gardipee and Stack Smith were elected to two year terms on the board of directors. In addition to the newly elected directors the board is made of the elected officers, James Rouman, past president and hold-over members John Coan and Ray Shaw.

Jack Manning was elected associate membership chairman.

There were brief discussions of the sea lamprey problem and building financing plans.

Following the meeting two sound-color movies, "Gunning the Flyways" a waterfowl hunting picture and "Point" showing quail and turkey shooting in the South, were shown by George Marcouiller. Lunch was served by the teen-age committee.

"Ten days was all that it took O-JIB-WA BITTERS to bring me the results that I sought for so long," says Mr. Walter Kleimola, R No. 2, Ironwood, Michigan.

"My wife is the one who first introduced me to O-JIB-WA BITTERS. She began taking it about a year and a half ago, because her arms were swollen and very painful. Her blood circulation was very poor and brown spots began to appear on her skin. She had tried many medicines, but nothing helped very much until she used O-JIB-WA. The pains left and the spots went away, so she has been recommending it to others ever since. I read on the folder packed with the bottle, that it was good for stomach ailments, and as I have been suffering for a long time with my stomach, I decided to give it a trial. About all I had been able to eat was like baby food, and of course anything fried would about kill me. O-JIB-WA BITTERS helped me right away and in 10 days I wasn't bothered at all. Because of the excellent results we have both received from your medicine, we are glad to tell all who suffer about the merits of O-JIB-WA BITTERS."

Laboratory Scientist Gets Doctor's Degree

MARIAN G. SPRICK

A Doctor of Philosophy degree in bacteriology has been granted to Miss Marian G. Sprick, assistant director of Powers Branch laboratory, by Michigan State College. Miss Sprick received a Bachelor of Science degree from Michigan State College and a Master of Science degree in public health from the University of Michigan.

Doctor Sprick is a member of the Michigan Department of Health and has been in charge of the Powers Branch Laboratory which is located in Pinecrest Sanatorium, Powers, since January, 1944.

The Powers Laboratory serves nine counties in the Upper Peninsula. Examinations for tuberculosis and other communicable diseases are performed at the laboratory. Milk and water tests, serological, hematological and blood chemistry examinations are also made. The laboratory was opened January 23, 1939. Over 77,000 examinations were made during the past year.

The central diagnostic laboratory is located in Lansing. Dr. G.

D. Cummings is director. Two other branch laboratories are located in the state, one in Grand Rapids, and the other in Houghton. Dr. Grace Eldering is in charge of the Grand Rapids Branch Laboratory and Alvin Scott is in charge of the Branch Laboratory at Houghton.

Before joining the Michigan Department of Health, Miss Sprick was a bacteriologist at Butterworth Hospital, Grand Rapids, for four years. She also worked as a bacteriologist on a Pertussis immunization project, Michigan Department of Health, Grand Rapids, for three years. This project was set up for making Pertussis vaccine for prevention of whooping cough. The research study was conducted by Dr. Pearl Kendrick.

Dr. Sprick is a member of the Society of American Bacteriologists, American Public Health Association, Michigan Public Health Association, Registry of Medical Technologists and belongs to the honorary society Phi Kappa Phi.

Kiwanians Hosts To 4-H Leaders

A total of 55 leaders in 4-H Club work were guests of the Escanaba Kiwanis Club Monday noon at the annual 4-H recognition luncheon of the local club. Featured speaker at the gathering, held at the House of Ludington, was Norman Laakso of Chatham, Northern Michigan College student who spent five months in Finland as Upper Peninsula representative under the International Farm Youth Exchange program.

Laakso was introduced by Fred Bernhardt, Delta county 4-H agent, who called attention to the new 4-H program which has as its objective a better understanding with the rural people of foreign countries.

Relating his experiences, Laakso pointed out that farms in Finland where he stayed are relatively small, averaging 10 to 12 acres, and that approximately half of the nation's population of four million persons are engaged in farming. The kitchen is the main gathering place in the Finnish home, and the sauna (steam bath) has an important place as it has in Finnish communities of the Upper Peninsula.

It is notable, Laakso said, that Finland has the only 4-H college in the world, and it is there that leaders are trained for paid jobs directing the 4-H Club program. There is no religious problem in Finland, and the church (Evangelical Lutheran) is state-owned. From his observations, the Upper Peninsula student said that it was evident that the Finnish people have decided that Russia must not be annoyed, but that they are

Company C Attains Membership Of 99; Goal Is 110 Guards

The strength of Company C 107th Engineers has reached an all time high of 99 enlisted men and five officers, according to Capt. Roy J. Johnson, company commander, who said this is the largest active member personnel of the unit since its organization in the fall of 1946.

He pointed out that interested young men should take advantage of an expanding unit by joining now, as the vacancies are becoming limited. After the total of 110 enlisted men is reached, the unit will start a priority or waiting list.

Another record which the local engineers attained was to top the State of Michigan in recruiting in November for a company size unit. This was marked by a net gain of 17 new men during the month. In December, the unit placed third in the State with a gain of nine enlistees. The State of Michigan Adjutant, General Moran, commended the local company by saying, "a special commendation for all concerned for their splendid recruiting efforts."

Company C has added another officer to its instructor and supervision staff. He is Capt. Chester Van Warien, local conservation officer, and past marine flight officer, who is training with the engineers and will soon take over the role of Unit Plans and Training, Supervisor.

Deficit Indicated In Ike's Budget For Next Fiscal Year

IN the two years since President Eisenhower took office, the notion has got about, with the help of the Democrats, that his Administration is interested in a balanced budget for its own sake. But his newest annual budget proposals would seem to knock that idea cold.

They project a federal deficit for the year starting next July of somewhere around $2.5 billion. This isn't whopping, but it isn't insignificant, either.

As forecast weeks ago, Mr. Eisenhower and his top advisers concluded that they could not cut this figure substantially lower and still serve the interests of the na-

Wor-'s, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

A correspondent asks if I can explain the meaning of the word "cablese" which he cannot find in his dictionary. This term, familiar to most newsmen and especially to foreign correspondents, means a sort of verbal shorthand used in cablegrams to reduce the word-count of a message and thus lower its cost. Most dictionaries do not yet enter this term and, astonishingly enough, it seems even to have eluded that fine old newspaperman, Henry L. Mencken, author of the magnificent AMERICAN LANGUAGE.

However, that brash and bright lexicon which your correspondent edited some years ago, WORDS: THE NEW DICTIONARY, defines "cablese" thus: "a condensed, succinct style of writing, notable for its use of compounded words used by newsmen to economize on cable charges for foreign dispatches."

An example of cablese was cited in Damon Runyon, Jr.'s recent book about his father. It seems the elder Runyon was working on an assignment for the Hearst chain which would bring him to the city where his son was working for one of the Scripps-Howard papers. When Runyon, Sr., failed to report on schedule, a wire of inquiry was sent his son—who replied: HEARST'S RUNYON UNSHOWS HERE (signed) SCRIPPS-HOWARD'S RUNYON. Thus, in the single word UNSHOWS, young Runyon managed to say "has failed to put in an appearance as yet."

A knowledge of cablese and facility in its use is indispensable to reporters on foreign beats, but you'd better be able to show a press card if you want to get this particular brand of verbal shorthand past the cable clerks.

"I started to say," writes LeRoy Scott of Adelanto, Calif., "to . . . the old saying, 'He also serves who only stands and waits.' I might observe, 'He also fights who only stands his ground.' But the proper word would not come to me. I toyed with 'parallel' and 'imitate'—and then dropped the whole thing. What would you have said?"

The word you were looking for is "paraphrase"—to restate the sense of a phrase or passage in other words, especially when the restatement serves the purpose of making the meaning clearer.

Try And Stop Me By BENNETT CERF

The German comedian, Joe Cawthorn, used to deliver a soliloquy on a dog's life that Producer John Golden loves to quote: "Vot der matter mit a dog's life anyhow? Look at my dog Towser layin' by der fire. Is his life bad? He chust eat some bones and his belly is full. Me—I got in dispepshion und can't eat nuddings. Und I gotta hurry back to work. Towser eats und hurries back to sleep. I gotta buy school books und pants for my four children. He's got maybe forty children. Does he have to buy them school books und pants? No, he don't. But even worse, when he dies, he's a dead dog and that's all mit him. Me—after I get dead, I gotta go to hell yet besides!"

"My poor brother," said the inmate of a rest home, "is suffering from fallen tion. If there was a "balance the budget at all costs" group within the President's official family, it has at least temporarily lost out.

Up to this point, the Eisenhower regime has made considerable progress in slashing federal expenditures. Some critics would say this was done at the price of lost muscle, as well as fat, in the vital defense establishment. But this is highly debatable ground.

Whatever the wisdom of reductions in defense and other spending in the past two years, it is plain that the President feels the point has been reached where further trimming must be indulged in sparingly.

There is compelling need for more atomic air striking power, for a better continental defense system, for foreign aid not great in total but shrewdly dispensed for maximum effect in the less developed countries.

At the same time, domestic requirements have piled up, and the President's recommendations for the home front indicate unmistakably his conviction that the federal government has a large area of responsibility in such matters as schools, health programs, highways, and other welfare plans.

Perhaps not many would have imagined a few years back that a Republican administration would propose sizable outlays for these things. But the fact is that Mr. Eisenhower's own oft-expressed philosophy of government—"conservative in economics, liberal in matters of human welfare"—opens the way for the kind of programs stressed in the new budget. And, actually, there is today substantial bipartisan acceptance of these objectives, though nothing like, of course, the unanimity which marks action toward our defense goals.

Democrats will say, naturally, that in offering this sort of budget Mr. Eisenhower is merely aping past Democratic regimes. But he has been impelled along this path by the realities of American life in 1955, and certainly the Democrats have no monopoly on these.

Defense Premium

CURRENTLY we are spending about $42 billion a year for national defense. That seems like a lot, and it is. But, according to one unique method of figuring, it isn't excessive.

The Family Economics Bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Company decided to measure the defense outlay as if it were an insurance premium on the vast physical assets of the United States.

Since the value of these assets is estimated at roughly a trillion dollars, the money we spend for defense amounts to a 4 per cent insurance premium on that total. And that is somewhat less than the insurance rate the average American pays on a typical new car.

There is no way, of course, to calculate the value of our great intangible asset—freedom. But put it together with our tangibles and it's clear we're getting a pretty good insurance bargain in the present defense expenditure.

Today And Tomorrow

By WALTER LIPPMANN

In their press conferences on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, Mr. Dulles first and then the President made known the decision not to defend the Tachens and the other off-shore islands which are held by Chiang's Nationalist forces. This marked the turning of a page.

Until then our military commitments in this area had as a matter of policy been left undefined and uncertain. Our policy was to keep everybody guessing. Thus under the proposed security pact with the Nationalist government our military commitments are quite specifically limited (Article VI) to Taiwan (the Chinese name for Formosa) and the Pescadores. The treaty promises nothing beyond that, nothing that is to say, about the off-shore islands. But the notes exchanged by Mr. Dulles and Mr. Yeh, the Nationalist Foreign Minister, which go with the proposed pact, do say that the United States could by "joint agreement" act in the "other territory"—which means the Tachens and the off-shore islands. We were not bound to act there. But we had left ourselves the option of acting if we chose.

Some time ago the Peking government began to test our intentions in this unclarified situation. They took to shelling and bombing off-shore islands, and finally by an amphibious operation they conquered one of them last week. It was at this point that the Administration abandoned its policy of deliberate uncertainty, and made known the decision not to intervene in the defense of the off-shore islands.

This might be described as a sound decision taken under embarrassing conditions that should have been foreseen and avoided. The policy until last week was a bluff that was called, and we have retreated in the face of Red Chinese military action. Since for good reasons we had never meant to fight for the off-shore islands, it was a serious error to give the impression that we might fight for them.

STRATEGIC PRINCIPLES

Moreover, the President gave a very poor reason for our decision to draw a line between the Formosa-Pescadores territory which we will defend and the off-shore islands which we will not defend. He said that the Tachens and the small islands are not "a vital element, as we see it, in the defense of Formosa and the Pescadores." This takes it for granted that we have a unilateral right to intervene in foreign territory for strategic reasons—that the controlling principle of our policy is not law but strategy. This, to give it its true name, is militarism.

We do not need to resort to militarism to protect our interests in this area. There is a radical difference in law between the two sets of islands. Throughout the twentieth century Formosa and the Pescadores belonged not to China but to Japan. They were captured from Japan by the United States, not by China. Under the Japanese surrender terms of 1945, which were formally ratified by the 1952 treaty of peace, (Chapter II Article 2-b) "Japan renounces all right, title and claim to Formosa and the Pescadores." But now let us note this. Though Japan has renounced the title, no one else has acquired it.

In the President's message of Jan. 10, 1952, submitting the Japanese peace treaty to the Senate, he put into the record the official statement of Mr. Dulles to the San Francisco conference. In that statement Mr. Dulles said that "some Allied powers suggested that Article 2 should not merely delimit Japanese sovereignty according to Potsdam, but specify precisely the ultimate disposition of each of the ex-Japanese territories. This, admittedly, would have been neater. But it would have raised questions as to which there are now no agree answers . . . clearly, the wise course was to proceed now, so far as Japan is concerned, leaving the future to resolve doubts by invoking international solvents other than this treaty."

NOT INTERVENTION

None of this applies to the off-shore islands. They have always been Chinese. We have a right to be present in Formosa and the Pescadores under the terms of the Japanese surrender and of the Japanese peace treaty. We have a right to see that their "ultimate disposition" is not settled by force but in accord with the interests of the people of Formosa and of the interests of the powers concerned in the Pacific. Our presence for these purposes is not intervention in the Chinese civil war. It is not intervention because Formosa and the Pescadores are not legally Chinese territory.

But were we to intervene in the off-shore islands, we would be acting on Chinese territory in a Chinese civil war. For these reasons our actual decision not to intervene in the off-shore islands would not only look better but would in fact be better if it were based not on the strategic opinions of the White House and the Pentagon but on the law and the right about Formosa and the Pescadores.

Our right to defend Formosa rests on the fact that it is territory ceded by Japan about which "the ultimate disposition" has not been settled by any treaty. Even though both Chinese governments claim Formosa as Chinese, even though we promised in 1943 at Cairo to "restore it" to the Republic of China, Formosa is not now, it is not yet, Chinese territory. Because of that our presence in Formosa is not intervention in the Chinese civil war.

Singing their own praises is the only way some people ever hear them.

Outboard Motor Makers Silence Putt-Putts, Spur Rush To Sea

THIS ONE PICTURE TELLS THE STORY of the growing boating boom as the whole family takes to the water in a cruiser powered (in new silence)—by an outboard—yachting at auto price levels.

By SUMNER AHLBUM

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Commodore Bill Shelby of Sarasota, Fla., sniffed the weather inside the big Kingsbridge Armory in New York, where he had just made port on his annual voyage north from his cattle ranch to the year's first motor boat show.

"In the old days, people used to come to see how the big boats looked, and maybe to dream," observed the Commodore, who used to buy an occasional big houseboat himself. "Now it's all little guys and their families, and they're coming to buy little boats."

What's changed the little guy from a boat dreamer to a yachtsman, a word which now applies to anybody with a skiff? One thing is all the new time he has for leisure. The other, as much as anything else, is the fact that the outboard motor has grown up.

For a good many of the 50 years since it was invented, the outboard was regarded as a temperamental contraption which bit the hand that fed it gas and shattered the Sabbath peace on lakes and harbors. It was better than rowing, but it wasn't exactly pleasure to anyone except converted motorcycle enthusiasts.

But since World War II the outboard has been catching up with civilization. It got more powerful—the biggest is now 40 horsepower. It added gadgets such as electric starters and automatic bailers. Instead of just being a substitute for a pair of oars, it became a power plant for family cruises.

And on its 50th birthday, which is this year, the big noise about the outboard is silence.

This is a far cry from the original putt-putt which Cameron B. Waterman built out of an air-cooled bicycle engine when he was a student at Yale and put on the market in 1905.

Waterman, a 78-year-old patent attorney and manufacturer, sold his outboard business in 1916, but he came from Detroit to be honored at the New York Motor Boat Show, which was a curtain-raiser for similar shows in the next month or so in Chicago, Boston, San Francisco, Miami, and many other places.

Today the business Waterman started, and which Ole Evnirude later boosted to popularity, is moving at a speed boat pace. W. J. Webb, general manager of Evnirude, which is one of the big four in the field, figures the 480,000 motors sold in 1954 totaled about $72,000,000. He estimates that with all the other outboard gadgets included, it's a $160,000,000 industry right now and should soar to $190,000,000 this year.

His firm, which is one of those making a big cry about the new silent motors, has a bank of telephones at its show exhibits. You pick one up, and you get a convincing recorded demonstration of the difference between the old racket and the new purr. "When we get through with all our developments," Webb said, "the only thing that will interfere with conversation is an outboard motor boat will be the noise of the wind and the water."

At Scott-Awater, where the big sales pitch is "superquiet" and their exclusive "bail-o-matic" device, a spokesman estimated the industry's business jumped 11 per cent in 1954—and his own company's 47 per cent.

At Johnson and Mercury, the others of the big four, the word also is silence, with Mercury tossing in a feminine touch—motors painted Navajo orange, rhapsody blue, desert tan, and other fancy shades. There were some sales faces to match the new colors when a survey made at the New York show indicated the men thought the new dazzle was fine—but the ladies preferred old-fashioned green.

All in all, there are 24 manufacturers turning out 26 different brands of outboards, and from the way the customers stormed the decks of the Kingsbridge Armory, it looks like there will be plenty of business for all hands. On one Sunday the five department stores the doors closed twice because there were too many people inside.

More and more boat makers are offering cruising hulls to go with the outboards, which puts family cruising on the price level of a car, or even less. The do-it-yourself flurry that had the kit boat business booming for the past two years seems to have subsided, however; the U-Make-It firm, one of the biggest kit producers, now has added a ready-built cruiser, imported from Germany, to its line.

The cruising interest seems to have spread to every place there's room to float a boat. One manufacturer got an inquiry from a town in Arizona where you'd expect to need a diving rod to find water. And at the New York show, a boat-builder from Little Rock, Ark., was doing a brisk business with an outboard cruiser called the "Arkansas Traveler."

Some boatsmen think the rush to the water is because traffic has taken the pleasure out of weekend automobile jaunts. If the rush keeps up, the Sunday traffic at sea may get a little congested, too.

I'd like it (modern baseball) more if there were no relief pitchers. . . . A pitcher ought to fight his own battle to the bitter end.—Former pitching great, Cy Young, 87.

Cigaret smoking is a nervous kind of smoking. When a man puffs a cigar, he relaxes.—David Haas, retiring Cleveland, Ohio, cigar salesman.

I don't want to stay in this country (Italy) any more. . . . I want to go somewhere where I'd be left in peace—even in Soviet Russia, if they want me.—Former New York vice king, Charles (Lucky) Luciano.

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

(NEA Washington Correspondent) WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Washington residents still find it difficult to adjust themselves to seeing Dean Acheson in the role of private citizen.

On his way to work the other morning, the former Secretary of State hopped a bus in Georgetown, where he lives. Acheson generally walks to work—a good mile—but this morning he was obviously late.

As he boarded the bus, the driver looked at him and blinked, but said nothing. Just before the ex-Secretary stepped off the bus downtown, however, the driver said, "Say, is your name Acheson?"

"That's right," said Mr. Acheson with a wan smile that seemed to say, "Here we go again." But the driver let him get off without further comment. Then he explained to his other passengers, "I just had to satisfy my curiosity and make sure it was him, riding a bus."

EVEN THE TOP officials of government with all the inside knowledge, intelligence reports and expert advice there is to be had can't always predict how political or international diplomatic moves turn out.

Dr. James B. Conant, ambassador to Germany and former president of Harvard, was honest enough to admit this in a recent discussion of the London and Paris conferences which resulted in Western European agreement to rearm Germany.

"Last September," said Dr. Conant, "I am certain that if anyone had wanted to lay a wager that within six weeks an agreement would be signed . . . which would bring Germany into a European defense system . . . I would have bet long odds against it. Needless to say, I would have lost my money because that is exactly what happened."

"In retrospect we can now say that our apprehensions proved wrong, because Europe's most critical hour did not find any one of us wanting . . ."

"What actually occurred showed that, in the hour of need, the western nations were capable of rising above the level of national interest."

PENTAGON REPORTERS have been curious as to why Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson has held no informal, off-the-record sessions with them since the first one, right after he took office.

It has been the custom for all Defense chiefs to have these sessions, to give reporters necessary background on current developments. But Secretary Wilson's dislike for these meetings was revealed at one of his last press conferences of the year.

He was asked if a new Pentagon procurement directive reflected a change in his earlier plan to have single sources of military supply, instead of many.

Secretary Wilson replied rather testily that he had always been for the multiple source theory, but that his remarks on the subject at a private luncheon with reporters, shortly after he had arrived in Washington, had been twisted by the press. "That's why I haven't had any off-the-record conferences with you since," he declared.

"ULTRASOUND" or the science of "ultrasounds" is one of the newer fields of research from which unusual developments are expected in the next few years. It has nothing to do with co-called "high fidelity" as ordinary people first imagine. The name "ultrasounds" is taken from sound vibrations above the pitch which registers on the human ear. This is limited to around 15,000 vibrations per second. Ultrasound ranges from 18,000 to 500 million vibrations a second.

Garrett Corp. of Los Angeles, in a review of ultrasonic research, claims that among other things, ultrasound can: Make water and oil mix. Speed the growth of plants. Make moonshine into 10-year-old whisky in a matter of minutes. Drill a hole in glass to exact measurements. Break up calcium deposits on arthritic joints. Clean dirty metal parts in a jiffy.

U. S. Department of Agriculture research on stimulating the growth of seeds and roots by ultrasonic vibrations, through processes as not yet fully understood, may lead to new knowledge on the workings of life itself.

RETIRING REPUBLICAN Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, who lost out in the last election to Senator-elect Patrick V. McNamara, intends to remain in Washington and devote full time to ex-President Herbert Hoover's Commission on Reorganization of the Federal Government.

Senator Ferguson has been a member of this group for the last two years, serving without pay while attending to his Senate duties. Next year, working full time on the Hoover Commission and having no other duties, he can draw $50 a day compensation plus expenses. And if a better political job turns up for him, he'll be available to take it.

The 7 p. m. candlelight ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Walter Henning before an altar adorned with two vases of baby mums and pink and yellow snapdragons. During the nuptial service, "O Perfect Love" was sung by Melvin McDonald and "Oh Promise Me" by Earl Anderson with the accompaniment of organist, Mrs. Max Neumann.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, John E. Bruce of Arnold, wore a chapel length gown of Chantilly lace over nylon net fashioned with a jacket of matching lace. Her fingertip length veil of nylon net was caught to a seed pearl crown. She carried a cascading bouquet of white feathered carnations edged with white maline and red roses.

Miss Marilyn Bruce, Arnold, sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of shrimp nylon net over satin with a matching satin jacket. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a colonial bouquet of white feathered carnations edged with white maline and baby mums.

The two bridesmaids, Miss Suzanne Warfel of Milwaukee, the bridegroom's cousin, and Miss Rosemary Nault, wore floor length gowns of light blue and gold, respectively. The gowns were designed of nylon net over satin with lace jackets and were worn with matching headpieces. A MIXED PERFORMANCE

South deserved credit for the logic and simple directness of his bidding in the following hand, but he also deserved a huge demerit for his careless play.

South dealer.		North-South vulnerable.
♠ J 8 5 4		♠ K 7 3 2
♥ A 7 2		♥ 9 6
♦ 10 6 4		♦ Q 7 5 2
♣ K J 5		♣ Q 10 9
N		E
W		S
♠ A Q 10 9 6		♠ A K
♥ K Q J 8 3		♥ 8
♦ A 7 6 4		♦ 3 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♠	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♥	Pass
6♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

South could have been more "scientific" in the bidding, but to no good purpose. The mere fact that North raised spades was grounds for slam aspirations, and North then bid four hearts in response to South's three hearts, the slam prospect became excellent.

The Limping Goose

by Frank Gruber
COPYRIGHT 1954 BY FRANK GRUBER. DISTRIBUTED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: When Johnny Fletcher and Sam Cragg attempted to make a few dollars bill collecting, a man is murdered. The victim, Jess Carmichael III, was slain in the apartment of Alice Cummings, showgirl, who gave Johnny and Sam a "goose bank" filled with small change as part of the payment on a cheap fur coat. Lieutenant Madigan questions Johnny, but he doesn't consider them likely suspects.

VIII
Johnny closed the door and turned to Sam after Madigan left. The latter's face showed concern. "We gona sell these coins, Johnny? Our room rent's due tomorrow."

"No, Sam," he said. "We're not selling these coins until we can make a good deal on them."

"But how're we going to raise $36?"
"Thirty-six dollars," mused Johnny. He walked up to Sam and took the lapel of his coat between his thumb and forefinger.

"No!" cried Sam. "You ain't goin' to hock my suit. You did that once and I had to stay in here all day while you—"

"Don't worry, Sam," Johnny said, "they wouldn't give me over seven or eight dollars for this suit. But did you ever notice the kind of suits Peabody wears? Real nice material—must cost him $150 a suit, maybe $200."

"Yeah, he's quite a dude," admitted Sam. Then he reacted sharply. "You ain't thinkin' of—"

"Burglary? You know I wouldn't really steal—not even from a ghoulish Peabody. But borrowing isn't stealing, is it?"

"Peabody wouldn't lend you the sleeves out of his vest?"

"Oh, I don't think he's that bad. He has compassion for his fellow man and when he is compelled to lock a guest out of his room it is only the exigencies of our modern business system that forces him to do it."

"What're you talking about, Johnny?"
"Peabody, I'm trying to point out that he would like nothing more than to help us out—if he could. I think it's our duty therefore to help him to help us. I want you to go down into the lobby and watch Peabody. As long as he stays behind the desk fine, but the moment he comes out and heads for the elevator I want you to grab the house phone and call Peabody's room."

"He'll still be in the elevator, won't he?"

"He'll be in the elevator, but I'll be in Peabody's room."

"You ain't goin' to rob him?" Sam cried.

"Of course not. I just got through telling you that I'm going to help Peabody help us—well, never mind, just do what I tell you."

"But how're you going to get into his room without a key?"

"The passkey, how else?" Johnny drew a key from his pocket and exhibited it. "I've had this for a long time—just in case. . ."

"Wilbur Peabody, Forty-Fifth Street Hotel," said the pawnbroker, writing. He got $36 from the cash register.

Johnny counted the money. "Thank you, Uncle Charlie. I'll be back in a day or two to pick up the suit."

Outside, Sam Cragg heaved a great sigh of relief. "I should have held out for $40," Johnny said.

They crossed Eighth Avenue and were about to turn into Forty-Fifth Street, when Johnny caught sight of the lettering on a small store front: Universal Stamp & Coin Sales.

"Now we'll see what these coins are worth."

They entered the store and a heavyset, bald man of about 40 looked up from a stamp catalog he was studying.

"You buy rare coins?" Johnny asked.

"Depends what you've got," was the reply. "I'd certainly never refuse an 1822 half eagle."

"I sold the one I had last week," retorted Johnny. He brought out a handful of coins. The dealer wrinkled his nose in disgust. "Indian head pennies!"

"I've got some Barber head dimes here, too. Look."

"I don't have to look. How many dimes and quarters you got? How many pennies?"

"There's 12 quarters, 98 pennies and 24 dimes."

The dealer nodded. "That's $6.38. All right, I'll pay you two for one for the lot. . . Mmmm, $12.76."

"Are you kidding?" cried Johnny. "Some of these coins are rare. The catalog says that an 1872 Indian head is worth 30 bucks."

"Uncirculated," replied the dealer. "These are worn, some of them pretty thin." He shrugged. "According to the catalog—"

"Catalog prices!" cried the dealer. "Don't talk to me about catalogs. Those prices don't mean a thing."

"Look," said Johnny, pointing to a display in the showcase, "you have some Indian head pennies right there. How much would you charge me for an 1864-L?"

"Oh, you want to buy? That's different." The dealer reached into the showcase and brought out a card of Indian head pennies. "I just happen to have a nice 1864-L penny that I can let you have for, uh, $18."

"Two cents," said Johnny. "That's what you offered me!"

"Look, mister," said the dealer, "you got your business and I got mine. Two cents apiece for the pennies, 20 cents for the dimes and 50 cents for the quarters. Take it or leave it."

"Goodbye," said Johnny.

Mrs. Morrow, 81, Taken By Death

ENGLEWOOD, N. J. (AP)—Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, noted educator and writer, is dead at 81. She was the mother-in-law of Charles A. Lindbergh.

The widow of the former ambassador to Mexico and U. S. senator died at her home Sunday night with members of her family at her bedside. She had been ill for two months, but the family declined to give the cause of death.

When her husband died in 1931, Mrs. Morrow was asked by both major political parties to try for his senate seat. But she turned down these suggestions because she wanted to retire to private life.

The following year Mrs. Morrow was back in the public spotlight through the tragic kidnapping of her grandson, the Lindbergh baby.

She was graduated from Smith College in 1896 and was made acting president of the school in 1939—the first woman to hold such a post.

It was in 1903 that she married Morrow, who then was a leading financier. Before that she was a teacher of English, history and French.

Professor No Square At Oklahoma A & M

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—College students are inclined to think of their professors as strictly long-haired when it comes to music.

But not at Oklahoma A&M.

The Aggies have a professor who is a disc jockey on a local radio station five nights a week. James C. Stratton is the dignified maestro of the turntables and, as the cats might put it, he's no square.

The professor's show is devoted mainly to jazz and he has quite a following among the swing and blues enthusiasts. Stratton can converse about classical orchestration or chamber music as easily as he can about jazz. The professor teaches in the journalism department.

Goebel...first American beer to win acclaim in Germany

Director Stadler takes time to enjoy a glass of Goebel in the Henninger Brewery taproom. In the background is a many-centuries-old porcelain stove.

Director of Henninger Brewery, Frankfurt, calls Goebel

"one of world's truly fine beers"

"We have tried Goebel Beer at our brewery in Frankfurt, Germany. It is a pleasure to verify that it continues the great European tradition which we follow in our brewing of Henninger Beer. It is both light in body, dry in flavor, and altogether satisfying to the taste."

"We feel that Goebel Beer deserves its place among the world's truly fine beers."

Hubert Franz Joseph Stadler
Technical Director
Henninger Brewery, Frankfurt, Germany

It's unusual when other breweries praise Goebel . . . more unusual when you remember these breweries are in Germany, Holland, Belgium, England, Switzerland—the traditional centers of fine beers.

If you haven't tried Goebel recently, ask for it next time. You owe it to your own good taste to see just how good it is.

Cancer Society Work Described

An interesting and informative talk on the work of the American Cancer Society was presented before the Gladstone Rotary Club yesterday noon by Miss Jean Miller, chairman of education for the Delta County Unit of the American Cancer Society. Guest at the meeting was Fred Hoover who serves as Gladstone chairman of the Delta County Unit of the ACS. Program director for the day was Dr. A. H. Miller M.D., father of Miss Miller.

After describing how the society came into being, the speaker told of the division of each dollar given for work of the society. Half of each dollar remains in the county in which it is contributed. The major part of the other half is used for research.

In touching on the program carried out, education is stressed, the speaker said, for cancer can be controlled. Periodic examination and early diagnosis is important. One of every five persons living today will have cancer at sometime and half of those stricken with cancer can be cured. The 7 danger signals were pointed out and the suggestion made that they be heeded.

The main office of the Society in Michigan is at Grand Rapids, the Upper Peninsula office at Houghton and a laboratory is conducted at Menominee which examines specimens sent in to determine malignancy. An average of 54 are handled each 3-month period.

Offered by the county unit are free dressings, made by volunteer groups; hospital beds, wheel chairs, bed pans, sheets of all types, deodorizers, ducts and catheters. There also is a loan fund which any victim or family of victim may borrow from. Seventy-five per cent of these loans, although there is never any demand made, are repaid. There also is an emergency fund, loans from which must be repaid.

Half of the lives taken by cancer are lost needlessly, the victims not having been examined regularly or early. Efforts are made to teach fear without panic and knowledge without fear. The speaker said at present there are 35 cases of cancer in Gladstone, four of which are critical.

Heeding the teaching of the society may pay off, the speaker said, "for the life you save may be your own."

County Board Stands Pat On Lakehead Tax

The Schoolcraft County Board of Supervisors, in session Monday morning, took no action on a request of the Lakehead Pipeline company for an adjustment in assessed valuation placed on the firm's year old pipeline in the county.

The request for an adjustment in the personal property tax valuation was presented by Herman Gustafson, of Duluth, who argued that the pipeline valuation should be reduced to $4.37 per foot, from the present $6.13 uniformly used in townships here.

Gustafson pointed out that the county assesses at only 71 per cent of the state equalized valuation, and that therefore this same percentage of $6.13 should be used in assessing the pipeline. He emphasized that the firm is not regarded as a public utility.

The company appealed from Kimball township in St. Clair county last year, and the state tax commission reduced the assessment there to $4.41, Gustafson told supervisors. He also noted that the Supreme court now has ruled that state valuations be used for tax purposes, rather than county equalized valuations, in all counties, even where fractional school districts do not exist.

William J. Sheahan, prosecuting attorney, told the board he was not prepared to give an opinion on application of new rulings to assessments here, and stated he wished to meet in conference with supervisors a week hence. He indicated dual assessed valuations may have to be used in some townships.

The prosecuting attorney, following extended arguments on the pipeline assessment, recommended that the board of supervisors use its own discretion in assessing, and that "if the company is dissatisfied, it can appeal to the state tax commission."

The state tax commission a year ago set the figure of $6.13, as a "guide" for assessing officers, Sheahan pointed out, adding that supervisors can assess the pipeline at $8.50 or even $9 per foot, if they wish.

Supervisors Monday concluded their session here, after hearing reports from various departments, including the county road commission, the welfare department and the hospital.

Escanabans Give Rotary Program

Information on the history, purposes and ideals of Rotary clubs was presented Monday noon by three Escanaba Rotarians, Edward Edick, Atty. James Fitzharris and Joseph Ivens, during a regular meeting of the Manistique club.

The speakers, all of whom are past presidents of the Escanaba club, were introduced by Atty. William Hood, of Manistique, program chairman. The Rotary information program was designed for new club members accepted here.

Atty. Fitzharris traced the history of Rotary from its beginnings as a small Chicago dinner club of 12 to 15 men who met regularly with Paul Harris, founder and first president. Harris, who was born in Racine, Wis., received his law degree in 1891, after attending Princeton University, and then traveled abroad for five years, during which time he worked as an actor, newspaper reporter and teacher, Fitzharris stated. On his return to Chicago in 1896, Harris began meeting with other men for dinner once a week and Rotary grew from this, the Escanaba attorney pointed out.

Justice Court Books Ordered

Purchase of a set of law volumes, Michigan Statutes Annotated, at a cost of $270 for Justice court was authorized Monday night during a regular meeting of Manistique City Council.

The books, needed to aid the justice of the peace in his work, were requested at the meeting Jan. 10. At that time the Council deferred action until the city manager, O. E. Livermore, investigated and prepared a report. The newest law volume in Justice court dates from 1948, it was pointed out.

In other business Monday night, the Council requested that the city manager confer with Jacob Weber on plans for remodeling the Weber garage on Walnut St., for use as a youth center.

The Council heard reports from the manager on purchase of a high-lift pump by Francis Engineering company for the city's new water station and on a proposed revision of the cemetery ordinance here.

Councilmen reviewed prices on lots and grave openings, costs of perpetual care, and plans for regulations on grave markers, and for landscaping cemetery grounds. The manager's recommendations and the ordinance were referred to the city attorney, William Hood, for revision.

Atty. Hood presented a preliminary report on the legal answer which the city will file on a circuit court suit of the Michigan Water Resources commission to halt pollution of water allegedly resulting from emptying raw city sewage into the Manistique river and Lake Michigan. No date for a hearing here has been set yet, Atty. Hood reported.

Weldon Olson, brother of Escanaba's Mark and youngest of the biggest hockey-playing family in the Upper Peninsula, was a star in the Michigan State College lineup against Michigan Tech's Huskies Saturday night. Weldon scored the first goal of the game against Tech but the Huskies ran off with a 5-2 decision after defeating the Spartans 9-4 Friday night.

Coach Allan Rentfrew has one of Tech's all-time great teams this season. The squad is sprinkled heavily with Canadian freshmen and sophomores and should develop into one of the nation's strongest collegiate teams before long.

And how about that tight race in the Northern Michigan-Ontario League. Only two points separating the top and bottom teams in the five-team league. Escanaba has the tough job of trying to beat a classy Canadian Soo sextet tonight to take over the top spot in the standings.

With the Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves tournament just around the corner (first fights next Monday night at 8:30 at Holy Name gym) entries are pouring in from all points in the Peninsula. A field of about 50 fighters is entered and by far the biggest boy in the bunch will be a 220 pound heavyweight from the Menominee-Marquette stable.

BOWLING NOTES — Betty Bisdee of the Elkskadette team in the Elks Ladies Wednesday (9 o'clock) League picked up the 3-7 split last week. And Dot Briggs scored on the 6-10-7 split in the Women's Arcade League.

Hawks Make Bid For Top Spot In League

The Northern Michigan-Ontario Hockey League race reaches an early climax for the Escanaba Hawks tonight when they face the Canadian Soo Esquires at 8:15 at the fairgrounds rink.

The Hawks have come out of nowhere in the last week to challenge for the top spot in the five team league standings. Undeclared in four games last week, the Hawks are now in a position to take over the league leadership—if they can get past the classy Canadian sextet tonight.

Escanaba enters the game with four wins and two losses, good for 10 points in the standings. Canada's team leads the pack with 12 points on three wins (the Esquires get four points for each victory, as does a team that beats them).

If the Hawks win tonight they will have 14 points in the standings. Calumet and Portage Lake also play tonight but neither could take over the top spot by winning.

Primed For Victory

The Hawks are primed for victory tonight and if determination has anything to do with it they will surely make a good showing against the team that beat them 8-3 in their only previous match. All players, with the possible exception of Clarence Matt, are expected to be on hand.

Ben Artwich, stellar net-minder, will be in the Escanaba goal. This will mark Ben's first game against the Canadians and he is determined to make it a good one.

Joe Ricci, hampered with a leg injury in recent games, will team up with dependable Joe Nogalo on defense tonight. The first line will have Tony Mancini, Aimo Muhonen and Warner Wilson, with Mark Olson, Buddy Provo and Steve Butorac on the No. 2 unit. Bill Suriano and Bob Higgins start a third line. Spares on defense are Floyd Stac, who has been improving with each game, Mike Otis, Dick Johnson and Matt.

Bid For Top Spot

After a so-so start at the beginning of the season, when they were severely handicapped because of practice ice and warm weather, the Hawks have developed into one of the league's strongest teams. In their last four starts they have won two from Portage Lake and Calumet and tied Marquette and Portage Lake.

The Soo team, one of the best clubs seen here in many seasons, will no doubt give the Hawks plenty of trouble tonight. But the Calumet Radars proved they can be beat when they edged the Canadians 2-1 at Calumet Jan. 1. Mike Otis, Dick Johnson and Matt.

Junior Hockey Standings Listed

In games played Saturday in the Junior Hockey league the Southside Hurricanes defeated the Southside All Stars in the Midget division 7-1. Paul Bureau scored three goals and Butch Provo scored four.

In the Juvenile division the Northtown Rockets defeated the Southside Raiders 12-2. Beaver Lancour scored four goals for the Rockets and Dick Paler and John Nelson each scored one goal for the losers.

In the Junior Division two new teams have entered. The Northtown Ice Cadets (Capt. Bob Bordeaux) and the Southside Hawks (Capt. Bob Zitner). The Ice Cadets and the Hawks will play their first game Thursday night at 7 at the Junior High rink.

League standings:

Hockey Sidelights

All the more reason why hockey fans here should appreciate the fine work of Goalie Ben Artwich is the fact that Big Ben has chosen to cast his lot with the Escanaba Hawks again although his home town Stambaugh team is still leading the Northern Hockey League composed of Stambaugh, Ironwood, Rhinelander and Eagle River. . . . Stambaugh is in the lead, thanks to Ben, but now that he's playing only for Escanaba, the Stambaugh Red Wings are having a tougher time.

After four straight wins with Ben in the nets, Stambaugh was tied 4-4 by Ironwood and last Sunday Eagle River beat the Wings, 4-1, while Ben was tending Escanaba's net in the important 6-5 win over Portage Lake. With Ben playing headsup hockey and his Hawk mates giving him more help than ever before, Escanaba is undefeated in its last four games and is now only two points out of first place. For the fourth straight game here Sunday, Artwich had less saves than the opposing goalie. More than anything else that is indicative of the Hawks "New Look"—more aggressive offense, effective back checking by forwards and sharper play by defensemen.

Another big reason why fans should appreciate Ben Artwich is the fact that most hockey fans in the Stambaugh-Iron River area appear to prefer having Ben play for Escanaba than Stambaugh. . . . That's quite a situation. . . . Stambaugh residents who feel that way realize and appreciate the prestige of Ben's playing in a much faster league. . . . Calumet, Portage Lake, Marquette, Escanaba and the Canadian Soo play a much better brand of hockey than Eagle River, Ironwood, Rhinelander and Stambaugh. That is not intended to be a pat on the back for the Northern Michigan-Ontario League. . . . It is simply the basic difference in the caliber of play in the respective leagues.

Stambaugh fans know also that their Ben Artwich led the Escanaba Hawks to the Northern Michigan-Ontario League championship last year when the Hawks beat Marquette in a best-of-three semifinals and Portage Lake in a best-of-five finals to capture the Gibson trophy. That is why many, many of them like to see Ben play for Escanaba instead of Stambaugh and which, of course, was a big factor in Ben's decision to play for Escanaba despite a feeling of home town pride and of an obligation to his home town. He's playing for the Gibson trophy winner. . . . And that's the difference. —JGW

Northwestern Bounced From Top Spot In Big Ten Cage Standings

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

Northwestern's reign as kingpin of the Big Ten basketball race was short-lived—only 48 hours.

Minnesota and Iowa were back today in a tie for the loop lead, which has been making the rounds. Four teams have held it in the past three weeks.

Meanwhile, Tulsa moved into undisputed possession of first place in the Missouri Valley Conference. Colorado pulled a full game ahead of the pack in the Big Seven and West Virginia strengthened its grip atop the Southern Conference.

Only One Upset

Monday night's action, in fact, produced only one upset. That was at Miami Beach, where Miami defeated Georgetown 84-81 after scoring 20 baskets in 42 attempts from the floor in the first half.

Northwestern dropped into a third-place tie with Illinois by absorbing a 102-82 pasting from Minnesota at Minneapolis. The tremendous point production matched the Gophers' all-time scoring record.

Bill Simonovich, Minnesota's 6-11 operative, got 28 points. Northwestern's Frank Ehmann scored 32.

Ohio State, now in the league cellar, was nothing without its top scorer Robin Freeman and fell easy prey to Iowa 79-66. It was the Buckeyes' fourth straight conference defeat.

Ankle Not Better

Freeman's sprained ankle has not been responding to treatment and no one seems to know exactly when he'll be back. Iowa at one time in the second half led by 19 points. Carl Cain was high man for the winners with 20 points although John Miller had 26 for Ohio State.

Iowa and Minnesota have 4-2 conference marks, while Northwestern is tied for third with Illinois at 3-2.

"I've never seen anything like it before," said Harry Combes, Illinois coach. Combes, addressing the Chicago Basketball Writers' Assn. Monday, expressed amazement at the keen competition. He also harshly criticized the new bonus rule.

Opens Road Trip

Tulsa started a four-game road trip with a 67-64 victory over Houston. Tulsa now has a 3-0 record in the league and the victory was achieved mostly by holdings seven-foot Don Boldebeck to only 14 points.

Colorado had a tussle with Iowa State but pulled out the victory by 78-71 with Burdette Halderson scoring 27 points.

West Virginia had to come from behind in the last three minutes to whip Virginia Tech 64-61.

Georgia hit for six free throws in the last minute and a half to turn back Georgia Tech 70-76 and Wichita edged Drake 80-78 in other major games.

Young, Adams Get Knockouts

NEW YORK —Paddy Young and Petey (One-Finger) Adams, technical knockout victors in Monday night's television fights, are looking forward today to another payday within the next month.

It will be a fat one for flat-nosed Paddy if the final details are cleared for a non-title scrap with middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson in the Chicago Stadium, Feb. 16. This one could mean about $10,000 for the comebacking New Yorker who scored his third straight victory in stopping young Tony Johnson, a fellow New Yorker, in 1:05 of the fifth round at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena.

Adams, a sharp-punching Newark N. J., middleweight, racked up his fourth successive triumph by halting crude Angelo Brisci in 2:51 of the ninth heat at St. Nicholas Arena. It was the Italian's American debut.

The 23-year-old New Jersey Negro, who had four fingers of his right hand amputated at the joints following an accident three years ago, earned another TV shot in the St. Nick's. In about four weeks, he'll go again with either Allie Gronik of Detroit or Pat Lowrey of Toledo.

Loss $210,712 In Fires Here

Direct fire losses in the city of Escanaba during the calendar year 1954 totaled $210,712.29, according to a report issued today by Fire Chief Nels Bergeon. The fire department responded to a total of 283 alarms.

Greatest fire loss in the city last year was in manufacturing establishments, totaling $189,708.77. Losses in other categories were: Dwelling $4,884.38; mercantile $6,195.64; and miscellaneous buildings $3,715.50.

Among the 283 alarms to which the department responded in the past year, 230 were fire calls within the city, 18 were rescue calls, 20 were false alarms, and 15 were calls from outside the city.

In other work during the year the firemen made 706 routine inspections and 109 follow-up inspections in fire prevention work; tested and repaired alarm boxes, painted and repaired 404 hydrants, put in a total of 120 fire training hours, and recharged 96 fire extinguishers for private citizens.

D-Ga) quoted Dulles as saying "our entire position in the western Pacific" is at stake in Chinese Communist threats to conquer Formosa. George said it was his own opinion that passage of the resolution will not lead to a general war.

House members said they were told the resolution was broad enough to cover bombing the Chinese mainland or defending islands off its coast, if the President determines such action is necessary to hold Formosa and the Pescadores.

Chairman Richards (D-SC) of the House Committee predicted the House would complete action on the measure today. He said he heard no opposition.

Some Democrats said, however, that the President was in effect putting Congress on a spot by requesting a formal affirmation of authority that he already has as commander in chief.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) said if the Constitution does not confer the authority the President requested, "Congress cannot give it to him except in a declaration of war."

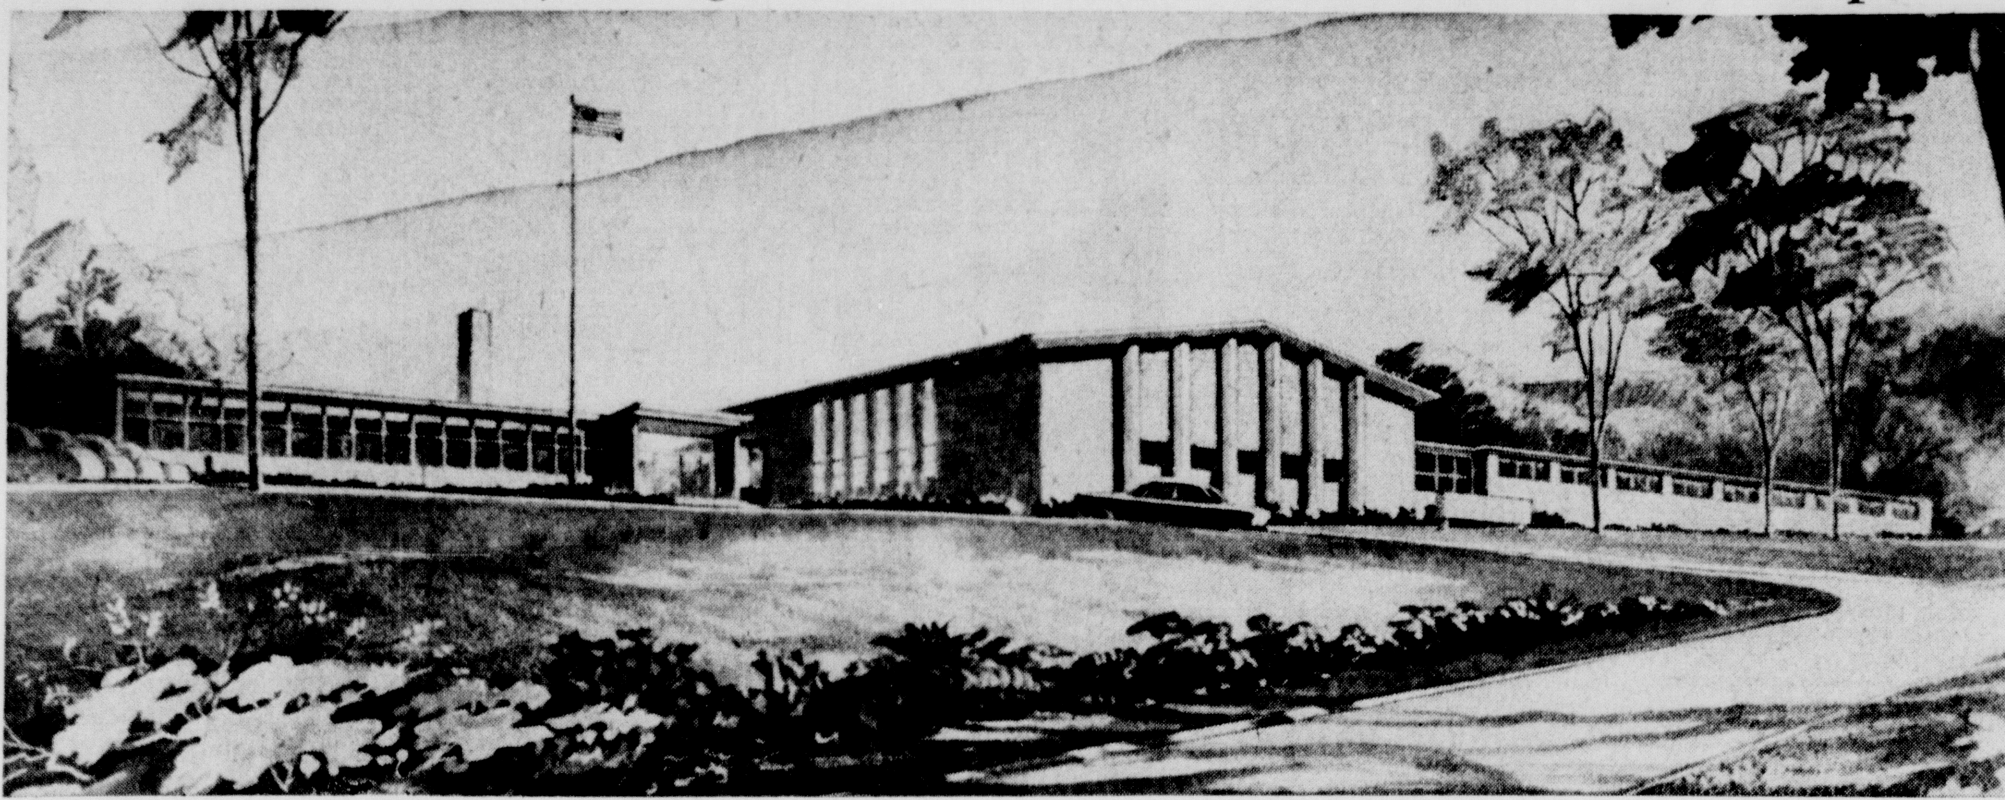

Senators Stennis (D-Miss) and Humphrey (D-Minn) said after hearing Dulles that the proposal was broader than they first realized. "This is getting us much closer to the (China) mainland than I had realized," Stennis said. Humphrey said, "This is very serious and the authority is very broad."

Shooting Possible
Richards told newsmen he does not feel the United States is headed toward a "big war" over Formosa. "But I feel there is a possibility of shooting."

Dulles told newsmen: "If the resolution is passed, it will decrease the risk of general war in the area. If it is not passed, it will increase the risk of war."

The resolution would put Congress on record as authorizing the President "to employ the armed forces of the United States as he deems necessary for the specific purpose of security and protecting Formosa and the Pescadores against armed attack, this authority to include the securing and protection of such related positions and territories of that area now in friendly hands and the taking of such other measures as he judges to be required or appropriate."

$350,000 Armory Being Built In Ironwood With Federal, State Help

IRONWOOD'S NEW ARMORY—The beautiful National Guard Armory pictured above in the architect's drawing is being constructed on a picturesque site on Mount Zion overlooking the city of Ironwood. At a cost of $350,000, it is being built with funds provided by the Federal Government and the State of Michigan with the city of Ironwood participating on an approximate 25 per cent basis, including the cost of land deeded to the state for the armory and provision of sewer and water facilities, electrical connections, street paving, curbing, sidewalks, paved parking area and landscaping. These considerations reduce the actual amount of monetary contribution required from a city for construction of an armory, it was reported. With 23,136 square feet of floor space, the Ironwood armory is a one-story brick and glass block construction with laminated wood beams in the main structure. Harley, Ellington and Day, Inc., of Detroit, are architects for the job. They also are building the armory in Marquette. Ironwood's armory is more than 60 per cent complete at present. The new armory in Marquette will be the home of Company B, 107th Engineers, the same battalion unit to which Escanaba's Company C belongs. Escanaba is seeking a similar but larger armory which can be used also as a community building and civic center. Two sites currently under consideration by the Armory committee and City Council are eight acres at the city water tower site off 23rd street north of Ludington street and a 10 to 12 acre site west of 23rd street and south of Ludington street. Because a combined armory and community building would be a larger structure than the new armories at Ironwood or Marquette, a site containing at least 10 acres is being considered. (Photo courtesy of Office of the Quartermaster General, Lansing).

Decision Likely This Week On City's Petition

Judge Glenn Jackson has indicated that he will announce his ruling this week on the petition of the City of Escanaba for construction of the will of the late Mrs. Catherine Bonifas.

The city requested authority to use a bequest of more than $300,000 for the construction of a state office building. One-third of the money had been earmarked for this purpose, one third for public recreation and the other third for a combined city hall-county courthouse.

Two witnesses, John Nystrom and Clarence Moore, testified in opposition to the request. Nystrom said that he believes the $100,000 earmarked for recreation should be reserved for that purpose. Moore advocated that this money be used for a swimming pool.

Hermansville

Civic Club Meeting
HERMANSVILLE—The largest crowd of the year attended the monthly meeting of the Meyer Township Civic Club held recently in Hermansville.

Supt. Arne Johnson outlined briefly the aims of the organization which is attempting to form a closer relationship and understanding between the school and the community.

Paul Challancin, educational supervisor of the State Conservation Department, Marquette was the main speaker. He spoke on what is expected of the public in regards to conservation and some of the specific problems facing the State Conservation. He cited fire as a major problem. The speaker showed a very interesting color film on wild life after which he answered the questions of the audience.

Leo T. Doran, secretary of the Meyer Township Board of Education was selected as moderator for the second semester. The following new members were appointed to the planning committee: Mrs. John Duca Jr., Mrs. Frances Lombard, Mrs. James Gribble, Harold Pipkorn, William Eisenzoph, and Harold Allen. This committee will meet shortly and plan the February meeting.

Mead Employees Will Be Honored At Party Tonight

Eight employees of the Escanaba Division of the Mead Corporation will be honored tonight for 25 years of service. The men will receive ruby-set service pins at a party at the House of Ludington.

Ford Shepherd, vice president in charge of public relations, will make the presentations.

The men are Gustaf Setterling, Patrick Miron, Manzer Way, Edward LaMarche, Hilding Swanson, George Chailier and William Wester.

An article in yesterday's Press erroneously reported that the affair was scheduled for last night.

Mailman Killed

MUNGER (P)—Daniel W. Coliver Sr., 61, veteran Munger rural mailman, was injured fatally on his route Monday when his jeep overturned six miles south of Bay City. Coliver had been a mailman for 35 years, 26 of them in Munger.

L. Ryan, Associated Press foreign news analyst, said Mikoyan's shift appeared to indicate a serious battle within the top Soviet command over the course of Soviet economy, Mikoyan, said Ryan, had been anxious along with Premier Georgi Malenkov to build up production of consumer goods desired by the Soviet masses, while N. S. Khrushchev, powerful first secretary of the Communist party, has been putting stress on the continued buildup of the heavy industries which furnish the Soviet war sinews.

Mikoyan's surrender of his trade job coincided with an editorial in Pravda, the Communist party organ, calling for the Soviet Union to concentrate on heavy industry instead of consumer goods.

Wall Street

NEW YORK (P)—Most share prices declined in the stock market today and some losses ran to around two to three points. Analysts blamed uneasiness over the tense Formosan situation.

By early afternoon, however, prices had steadied and many issues were selling above their lows of the day.

There were scattered bright spots. Southern Railway rose on an increase in the dividend. In the Air-crafts, General Dynamics and United Aircraft were active and higher.

Down a point or more were Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, General Motors, Radio Corp., Union Carbide, Santa Fe, New York Central and Du Pont.

In addition to the Formosa question, investors were concerned over new signs that credit will be tightened further. Such action usually depresses the market temporarily. Some U.S. government bonds slipped a trifle.
